NO! Do not let the Willamette stay so polluted that we can never eat fish from our own river.

Picture this: Returning from vacation, you come back home to find your house has been trashed. Someone has used it for a drug house and bathroom. Some of the pollutants has gotten into the floorboards. Would it be acceptable to you if your insurance company wanted to stop at replacing the carpet?

We want to swim, kayak, jet ski, wake board, paddle board, and fish in our back yard river. As water rate payers, we Portland citizens spent $BILLIONS to get sewage out of the water, and now it is time to get the pollutants out of the riverbed. A much larger area needs to be dredged. What better marker is there than monitoring the fish. When we can safely eat the fish, the river has probably recovered.
